when it convenes at Chicago may receive reports as to the exact situation throughout the country.

That as a preliminary to the appointment of such committees we recommend that the conference listen to reports of what has been done by the Hughes National League and by the committee of twenty-five of the Republican Club of the City of New York, and that it also discuss the influence of the existing deadlock between the Governor and the Republican Legislature of the State of New York, not only upon the candidacy of Cov. tughes but upon the success of any candidate, and for this purpose the committee moves that the conference go into executive

The words concerning the deadlock between the Governor and the Republican Legislature meant the differences between the Governor and the State Senate over the Agnew-Hart bill. Mr. Low and his associate committeemen evidently thought! A RAIN SOAKED RUSH HOUR that this was a subject for the conference to take up. But Charles W. Anderson, President Roosevelt's Internal Revenue Collector for the Third district, and one of the alternates at large instructed by the State convention to use every honorable means to bring about Gov Hughes's nomination at Chicago, was instantly on his feet protesting. Mr. Anderson made a very emphatic speech against the introduction of the Agnew-Hart matter into the conference, saying that that was a matter of State policy and not one of national concern. Mr. Anderson, under Gov. Higgins, was connected with the State Racing Commission. He is the only colored alternate at large that has ever been selected by the Republican party to represent the State in a national convention.

Mr. Low made a speech advocating the discussion of the Agnew-Hart bills, as part of the Republican policy of the State of New York. His remarks were received with stony silence. Even Senator Page, who spoke up for Gov. Hughes in fine fashion, steered clear of the racing bill controversy, and went on to tell of the excellences of the Governor as a citizen and a public officer.

Chairman Woodruff put the quietus on the discussion by declaring emphatically that the Agnew-Hart bills had nothing whatever to do with the purposes of the conference, as he understood them; that those bills were essentially and entirely a matter of State concern and could have no relation with the purposes of a conference called to advance the canvass of Gov. Hughes as the State's candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination. That part of the report submitted by Messrs. Low, Douglass and Campbell concerning the Agnew-Hart bills thereupon died a natural death.

Later in the day Gen. Woodford issued the following statement concerning the episode which took place in executive "Immediately after going into executive session the conference listened with interest and approval to a report from Gen. Wood ford as to the work of the Hughes National League and from Mr. Douglass as to the work of the Committee of Twenty-five of the Republican Club of the City of New York. [James S. Lehmaier seems to have been lost in the shuffle.] A brief discussion of the existing deadlock between the Governor and the Legislature revealed the fact that it was the opinion of those present that inasmuch as the questions at issue relate entirey to State matters the delegates to the national Republican convention cannot, as such delegates, intervene with pro-

Gen. Woodford had nothing further than his official utterances to say for publication. There were others though who said that the main object of the conference had been gained-that any statement that President Roosevelt's friends control seventy of the delegates from the Empire State or that the delegates thus far instructed were not sincerely for Gov. Hughes was shown to be fellacious and untrue. Nevertheless, Republicans who attended the conference said that when Gen, Woodford called this conference he himself put the stamp of suspicion upon the sincerity of the New York delegation to the Chicago convention. The argument was to the effect that the General would not have called this conference if he had believed in his own practical mind, with the experience of a hundred battlefields, that the New York delegation was sincerely and earnestly for Gov. Hughes The State convention had instructed the delegates at large and their alternates to use every honorable means to bring about the nomination of Gov. Hughes, and 50 per cent. of the Congress district delegates in the State have een instructed for the Governor. The conference was therefore looked upon as an unusual and rather extraordinary proceeding. The introduction by Mr. Low, Mr. Douglass and Mr. Campbell of the Agnew-Hart bills racing question was variously commented upon and more or less criticised by men in the conference, who said that evidently a futile effort had been made to make the matter one of national importance. The reply was that no

BROOKLYN ELEVATED CAR DE-RAILED-TROUBLE FOLLOWS.

Thousands Jammed in Park Row Terminal Unable to Move Either Way and Block Is Effective for Nearly an Hour-Police Reserves Called to Clear Way.

It was Lieut. Bull McCarthy who when asked his views on transportation said: "Put another tube under the river and Park Row will look like North William street." Maybe the police philosopher would have changed his mind had he been at the Park row end of the Brooklyn Bridge during the rush hour last night.

At a quarter to 6 o'clock a Lexington avenue express train bound for Manhattan was derailed at Navy street, Brooklyn. Immediately all the through trains from Park row on the Fifth avenue, Myrtle avenue, Lexington avenue lines, and the Brighton Beach and Fulton street lines as well, went out of business. It was impossible to get an elevated train from Park row to Brooklyn or the reverse.

A drenching rain was falling with gusts of wind and it wasn't long before the Park row terminal of the bridge was jammed with people. Ten minutes after the train went off the track in Brooklyn several thousand people pretty well filled the upstairs platforms, and the Park row staircase was so filled that the folks on it could not move up or down. The trolleys were bombarded, and open cars, of which there were a good number, were packed before they reached the loops.

The subway station was so crammed that people were pouring out of it to get room to breathe in. A couple of thousand people stood on the Park row sidewalk under cover and asked questions.

Capt. John J. Murtha, who has charge of the bridge police, hustled through the crowd to the telephone booth, where he crowd to the telephone booth, where he spent a few minutes ringing bells and shooting out orders. At the beginning of the trouble Capt. Murtha raced over to the Brooklyn yards in an effort to find out what was the matter. When not telephoning he raced up and down stairs. During the hour he ascended and descended twenty-

The crowd grew bigger and bigger. The long arm of the terminal reaching across Park row held, at a moderate estimate, 10,000 people. At least 10,000 more stood downstairs. No one would walk across the downstairs. No one would walk across the bridge through the rain and chilly wind.

With the help of ten reserves from the Oak street station the bridge police, by dint of continuous yelling, cleared a few paths. A road was blazed through the standersby so that newcomers could reach the trolleys. The Park row staircase thinned out a bit, only to become wedged full again later. wedged full again later.

Only one incident occurred to mar the occasion. A souse wearing a pure white necktie ventured into the telephone booth while Capt. Murtha was on the job. No appreciable time elapsed before the captain bolted out leaving the souse in full pos-session. The latter smiled amiably and after opening the door to announce that there did not seem to be anything the matter remained dignifiedly, smilingly silent.
At 6:40 the derailed train was got out of the way and one by one the various lines started running again. The police-men who are sent from the bridge nightly to do duty at the theatres were detained till five minutes of 7. By that time the crowds had disappeared.

WIND AND RAIN IN APRIL'S EXIT.

Hath House Blown to Sea-Motorman Hnrt-Theatre Folks Tardy.

Yesterday's rainladen northeast gale caused varied embarrassment in the city and about the harbor.

A three masted schooner coming down the East River loaded with stone suddenly turned when opposite Twenty-fifth street and swept toward shore. Dr. R. O. Baker and Dr. J. P. Wall, who were in the isolation ward of Bellevue Hospital at the edge of the river, raced down to the edge of the stone bulkhead by the side of the Charities and Corrections pier.

"Hey, look out, you'll ram the hospital with your bow!" yelled one of the doctors, while the other wildly waved his arms. The skipper dropped an anchor when his bow was not more than twenty feet from the wall of the isolation ward. An hour or so later a tug came and pulled the wandering schooner out into the river.

The wind blew so hard and the rain came down in such quantity in Times square that many persons were forced to the subway kiosks and stores for shelter. Curtains in some of the theatres did not go up on time last night because the audiences were

A 125th street cross-town car got off the track at Manhattan street and Amsterdam avenue when the rain was heaviest. This caused the line

JAPANESE CRUISER BLOWN UP

NEARLY ALL HER OFFICERS AND MANY MEN DEAD.

Victims of Disaster on the Matsushima May Number 280-Had 60 Naval Cadets on Board-Field Marshal Oyama's Son Missing-Bue to Decomposition of Cordite.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. TOKIO, April 30.—The cruiser Matsushima of the Japanese training squadron was sunk by an explosion at dawn to-day in harbor at one of the Pescadores Islands, between the west coast of Formoss and the coast of China. It is feared that only about 175 persons out of the more than 400 on board were saved. Capt. Yashiro was among those lost, as were most of the officers.

The disaster was reported in a despatch from Admiral Yoshimatsu, commander of the training squadron. It took place at 4:08 o'clock this morning. The cruiser was at anchor in the harbor of Makang. So far as can be gathered from the brief reports, a projectile exploded prematurely, causing the stock magazine to blow up. The vessel sank immediately until only her bridge was visible above water. The cruisers Itsukushima and Hashidate stood by and rendered assistance, picking up a number of officers and cadets. It is stated in the despatches that 141 members of the crew were saved.

cadets on board were known to be saved. The missing cadets include the only son of Field Marshal Prince Oyama and the sons of Baron Chinda, Vice-Minister of Foreign Affairs, who is very popular, and Vice-Admiral Uryu, who studied at Annapolis. Mme. Uryu was one of the pioneer girl students sent by Japan to the United States and later became a professor of the Girls' Higher Normal School. Vice-Minister Chinda is a graduate of an American university, and at one time filled the post of Consul at San Francisco The wife of Prince Oyama is a graduate of Vassar College. The gloom caused by the disaster will therefore be shared by the numerous college friends of the bereaved parents in the United States. The quarters of the Matsushima's officers were in the after part of the vessel under a 121/2 inch rifle, and were surrounded by the magazines. There is no hope that any of them who were in their quarters at the time of the explosion escaped with their lives. The accident is attributed to the decomposition of cordite used in the ammunition. WASHINGTON, April 30 .- Baron Kogoro Takahira, the Japanese Ambassador, to-day received the following official version of the accident on the Japanese cruiser Matsushima off the Pescadores Islands: "Training ship Matsushima had accident on morning of 29th. Magazine in rear of ship exploded and ship sank. Saved-Three officers, 24 cadets, 7 non-commissioned officers and 141 of crew. The despatch was sent to Ambassador Takahira by the Japanese Admiralty and made no mention of the number lost. Commander Naomi Taniguchi, naval attaché of the Japanese Embassy, said that the usual complement of the Matsushima was 355 officers and men, and that she also had on board sixty cadets, making a total of 415 persons on board. According to the despatch received by Ambassador Takahira 175 lives were saved altogether. This would indicate that at least 240 persons are either lost or missing. Acting Secretary of the Navy Newberry Commander John A. Dougherty, American | cide with this. naval attaché at Tokio:

"Express to Minister Marine deep sorrow and sympathy of Department and American navy at terrible accident on board Matsushima, in which many gallant Japanese officers and men are reported to have lost their lives."

The Pescadores Islands, the scene of the catastrophe, are a low island group between Formosa and China They belonged to China until 1895, when they were ceded to Japan. They are known officially as the Hokoto Islands. They have also been styled the Bonin group, and the Chinese name is Pheng-Hu.

It has been reported recently from the Far East that Japan had mounted many heavy guns on the Pescadores Islands, where extensive defensive works are being erected. This was part of a programme to create a great naval base on the island of

The Matsushima was a steel ship, 295 feet n length, with a beam of 50 feet 6 inches. Her tonnage was 4,277 and she had a speed of 16.7 knots. She carried one 12.6 inch and ten 4.7 inch guns and others of smaller calibre, and four torpedo tubes. Her comelement was 360 men. She was launched in January, 1890, and took an active part in the Russo-Japanese War, participating in the blockade of Port Arthur. It was she who sank a Russian torpedo boat that tried to get out of the harbor in November, 1804. After the war the Matsushima, with two other Japanese warships, paid a visit to Honolulu and San Francisco. The name translated means Isle of Pines.

They are not doing any considerable damage, but the panic is increasing. Several new and violent craters have opened at the identical spot of the eruption of 1852. Continued earthquake shocks add to the terror of the people.

WELSHING ON HOME RULE? Asquith Disayows Churchill's Promise for Next General Election.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN.
LONDON, April 30.—It is recalled that among the many election promises made by Mr. Churchill, president of the Board of Trade, who was defeated lately for reelection in the northwest division of Manchester, was one regarding Irish home rule, the Government sanctioning the announcement that at the next general election the Liberal party would demand authority to deal fully with the question. This was interpreted by the Nationalists and others as importantly modifying the Government's attitude toward Irish self-government.

Premier Asquith was heck'ed on the subject in the House of Commons this afternoon He gave answers which, according to he most favorable view, were ambiguous, and which, Conservative politicians and papers declare, reate an amazing and mysterious situation.

Mr. Asquith made a speech in the House on March 30 which convinced Mr. Redmond, the Irish leader, and his followers that home rule was shelved, and accordingly Mr. Redmond warned the Irish electors in Manchester not to support Mr. Churchill. Then came Mr. Churchill's announcement, made, it was said, on the authority of the Government, whereupon Mr. Redmond withdrew the ban and advised that the Irish vote be cast for the Liberal candidate. To-day Mr. Asquith was asked to explain At the time the Admiral's report was the matter.

sent out, however, only a few of the naval He maintained that he had not authorized Mr.Churchill to make the announcement, and added he was convinced hat Mr. Churchill had not made any statement inconsistent with his (Mr. Asquith's) made on March 30. The latter certainly did not contain any such announcement as that attributed to Mr. Churchill, and it was generally interpreted, especially by the Nationalists, in the contrary sense.

The critics of the Government now pertinently ask how the various statements can be reconciled and why Mr. Redmond withdrew the ban if Mr. Churchill's statement was identical with that of Mr. Asquith. The United Irish League is apparently satisfied. It has directed the Irish voters in Dundee to support Mr. Churchill, who will contest that constituency. The league's resolution on the matter is, however, worded in a manner which pine Mr Asquith to Mr. Churchill's statement

CUBAN PRESIDENTIAL TANGLE. Gov. Magoon Tries to Figure Out the Next One's Term-League Sulks.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. HAVANA, April 30.-Gov. Magoon has written to the executive committees of the three political parties asking their opinions relative to the length of the term of the next President. The revolution of 1906 republic in 1909 makes it impossible to carry out the existing laws concerning the simultaneous election of President and Senators, owing to the fact that the Senators' terms have not expired, and it is required that the President be inaugurated on May 20, the anniversary of Cuban independence.

To bring back the terms to the old regular order two propositions are made. The first is that the successful candidate serve out the present term, plus a regular term of four years, making a total of five years three months and twenty days, which would end on May 20, 1914, or, second, serve four years, three months and twenty days, the term ending May 20, 1913, and readjusting to-day sent the following cable message to the Senatorial and municipal terms to coin-

Hill as the American representative there.

Among those present were all the mem bers of the Cabinet, the Ministers of the other South American republics, the secretary of the American legation, a number of leading officials, Mr. Purdie, president, and Mr. Odell, vice-president of the North American Society and several prominent private citizens of the republic. President Roosevel: and the President of Argentina were toasted. Dr Zeballos made a speech in which he referred to the recent visit of the American torpedo boat flotilla to this city and to the choice of Buenos Ayres as the place for holding the next Pan-American Congress. He highly praised President Roosevelt, the United States and Mr. Beaupré.

The latter made a very good speech in Spanish, in the course of which he com-plim nted Argentina and Dr. Zeballos, whom he characterized as a brilliant states.

COURT WILL NAME EXPERTS

IN CIVIL CASES IF THE DOCTORS HAVE TREIR WAY.

Proposed Standing List of Official Experts to Be Drawn On by the Court -Either Party May Subpieus Them Unofficial Experts Not Barred.

A committee of five of the State Medical Society has drawn up resolutions which it believes, if enacted into law, will go far toward putting expert medical testimony in a more creditable light before the and the determination to reestablish the public. This committee, which consists of Dr. John A. Wyeth of this city, Dr. Dwight Murray of Syracuse, Dr. A. W. Suiter of Herkimer, Dr. A. T. Bristow of Brooklyn and Dr. E. D. Fisher of New York, was appointed to cooperate with a committee of the same number from the State Bar Association, of which Austen G Fox is chairman. The resolutions adopted by the committee of medical men are merely tentative, but Dr. Wyeth announced at an Academy of Medicine meeting last night that he had strong hopes that the recommendations would be put before the Legislature at the next session practically as drawn.

The recommendations apply only to civil proceedings. They provide that any court in which any medical or surgical question is likely to be material may on its own motion, or at the request of either party up by a committee of the Academy of Medicine and the State Medical Society one or more persons learned in the science of medicine and surgery who shall investigate the facts of the case and give their opinion in writing to the court. A physician who is appointed by the Court or who shall be selected by an agreement of the two parties to the suit shall be served with a subpoena just as an ordinary witness, and he shall as soon as may be after the service thereof make such examination of the case as in his judgment may be necessary. His report shall be filed in the case and shall be open to inspection by either party, and the expert may be called as a witness by either party. The New York Academy of Medicine in making up the eligible list shall act for Greater New York and the State Medical Society for the rest of the State. The men whose names are submitted to the various courts must be of good standing in their profession and of not less than seven years actual experience. They shall be recom-mended as "competent and expert in medicine and surgery."

Such official expert shall be paid by the court out of the treasury of the county a minimum fee of $50 for the examination of and report on a case; $50 additional for the first day's attendance in court and $100 a day thereafter. If called outside his own county the expert shall be entitled to ex-

The resolutions provide that either party to the trial may call other expert witnesses, but each at his own expense.

The meeting at which Dr. Wyeth made his announcement was called for the pur-pose of listening to an address by Judge Rufus B. Cowing on the subject of expert witnesses.

In his twenty-eight years of experience on the bench, Judge Cowing said, he had never seen a murder case where insanity was the defence that the defendant himself was put on the stand. He wondered why it was. He couldn't see why the defendant himself shouldn't be called and asked a few pertinent questions.

The opinion of competent and impartial medical experts was of great help to a jury in determining a case, but the practices now in vogue would have to be radically changed before medical experts would receive the respect to which they should be entitled.

One of the things that have put expert testimony in disrepute, in Judge Cowing's opinion, is its partisan character. It had been his experience on the bench that each side could get just about as many expert opinions as it wanted to pay for. In large measure, as Judge Cowing viewed it, the present hypothetical question procedure was responsible for that. The expert is brought in and asked to pass his opinion on a hypothetical question framed by a lawyer on only part of the evidence. He believed that the expert ought to pass his opinion on the facts alone.
